WHERE ART AND WINE GO HAND IN HAND

A place where almond trees are the first to bloom in the country in early spring; where a hiker gets easily lost in the hills planted with vines; where one can paddle by several wine districts on a single canoe trip on the Danube; where the colour of mourning is traditionally white in the villages of Ormánság; where a whole village with its iconic restaurants and wineries is dedicated to show the local gastronomy; where there are annual jamborees for artists and the public in summers – this 7,800 hectare area is the Pannon Wine Region.

Wine districts: Pécs, Szekszárd, Tolna, Villány

THE WORLD OF MEDITERRANEAN WINES

The rich and spicy wines of the Pécs Wine District are remarkably charming, but due to their low acidity, it is the best to drink them within a few years. The traditional white variety of the area is Cirfandli serving originally a base for both dry and sweet wines. Szekszárd is the home of the southern-type, rich red wines, its flagships are Kékfrankos, Kadarka and Szekszárdi Bikavér (Bull's Blood from Szekszárd). Tolna Wine District is the coolest area in the region, wines from here catch always attention with their elegance and fruitiness. Villány is the home of 'big game', cellars hide full-bodied red wines especially intended for long maturation. Local winemakers favour Cabernet Franc, but for an evening chat they usually open a bottle of fresh, fruity Portugieser.

It is a sunny region,
where lanes are meandering between
vineyards on loess,
limestone and clay.

5 UNMISSABLE EXPERIENCES

1. Spend a day in Pécs with hanging around the World Heritage Site to find all the treasures of the town, then have a refreshing swim in Lake Orfű, and relax with a glass of local Cirfandli.
2. Register to a wine tour in Szekszárd and enjoy the special feeling of riding in the loess gullies or, in local dialect "szurdik", then settle down on a shady terrace of one of the wineries and enjoy the magnificent view of the valley with a glass of Kadarka or Szekszárdi Bikavér.
3. Paddle downstream in a canoe from Dunaföldvár to Paks on the Danube and taste the famous Paks-style fish soup. Visit the tidy press houses on Sárgódör Square in Paks, and never resist the temptation of some cool local Siller (a traditional wine type between rosé and red).
4. Walk uphill along the path next to the Sculpture Garden at Nagyarsány, it is a spectacular view across the countryside from there, then visit the vivid cellars of Palkonya, Villánykövesd and Villány, and taste some local wines.
5. Relax a bit in one of the nearby baths, after that visit the Siklós Castle, where you can see far away in clear weather from. Spend the sunset on the Fekete Hill in Kisharsány, with some Villányi Franc in your glass.
